FATHER JOHN'S MESSAGE

Thirtieth Sunday in Ordinary Time A

As we near the end of the Liturgical Year, just four or five weeks away the Church turns our attention to the more essential things of our pilgrimage. Do we truly love God? Do we love our neighbour in truth? For the Christian the love of our neighbour is not just limited to the ten commandments and summarized for us in the first reading from Exodus. Obeying the ten commandments fulfills the whole law given by Moses and still relevant to everyone. At the end of our pilgrimage, we must also ask ourselves if we will be found in the likeness of Christ. St. Paul recalls this deeper commitment for us when he says: "And you became imitators of us and of the Lord." It is the Gospel, and specifically the beatitudes that allow us to pass over from the Law to the spirit and letter of the Gospel. The Gospel is about obedience to the law as well as the imitation of Jesus Christ. The Gospel does depend upon the foundation of the former, as a house on its foundations. We need both to prepare ourselves for the Second Coming of the one who has saved us. The law itself is perfected and completed by the Gospel.

Peace. Fr. John
